DESIGN
STUDIO

Hello!

I am Martin. I am an award winning designer with extensive experience and awards in creative direction, videography, branding and UI UX design.

I have worked in lead design roles for various agencies across Europe and the United States. As a freelancer, I have worked for clients across industries – from automotive and creative products with BMW, Red Bull, and Peak Performance to official associations including USA Wrestling and the Olympic Museum.

My resume includes over 25 international Design Awards, including the prestigious German Brand Award in Gold, D&AD Gold, Internet World Business Award (x2), Private Equity Wire Award (x6), Best of eCommerce in multiple categories, as well as multiple Golds and Awards in UI and UX Design.

I have been teaching the importance of branding and design at the Denver University Daniels College of Business and at the World Trade Center, Denver.

I am also part of the team that helps young adults prepare for the challenges of tomorrow through the spirit of the Olympic Games in our program “Young Champion Ambassador” for the Olympic Museum, USA.

The worlds leading private market
investment platform

UX & UI / BRANDING
WEB DESIGN / APP DESIGN

CONTEXT

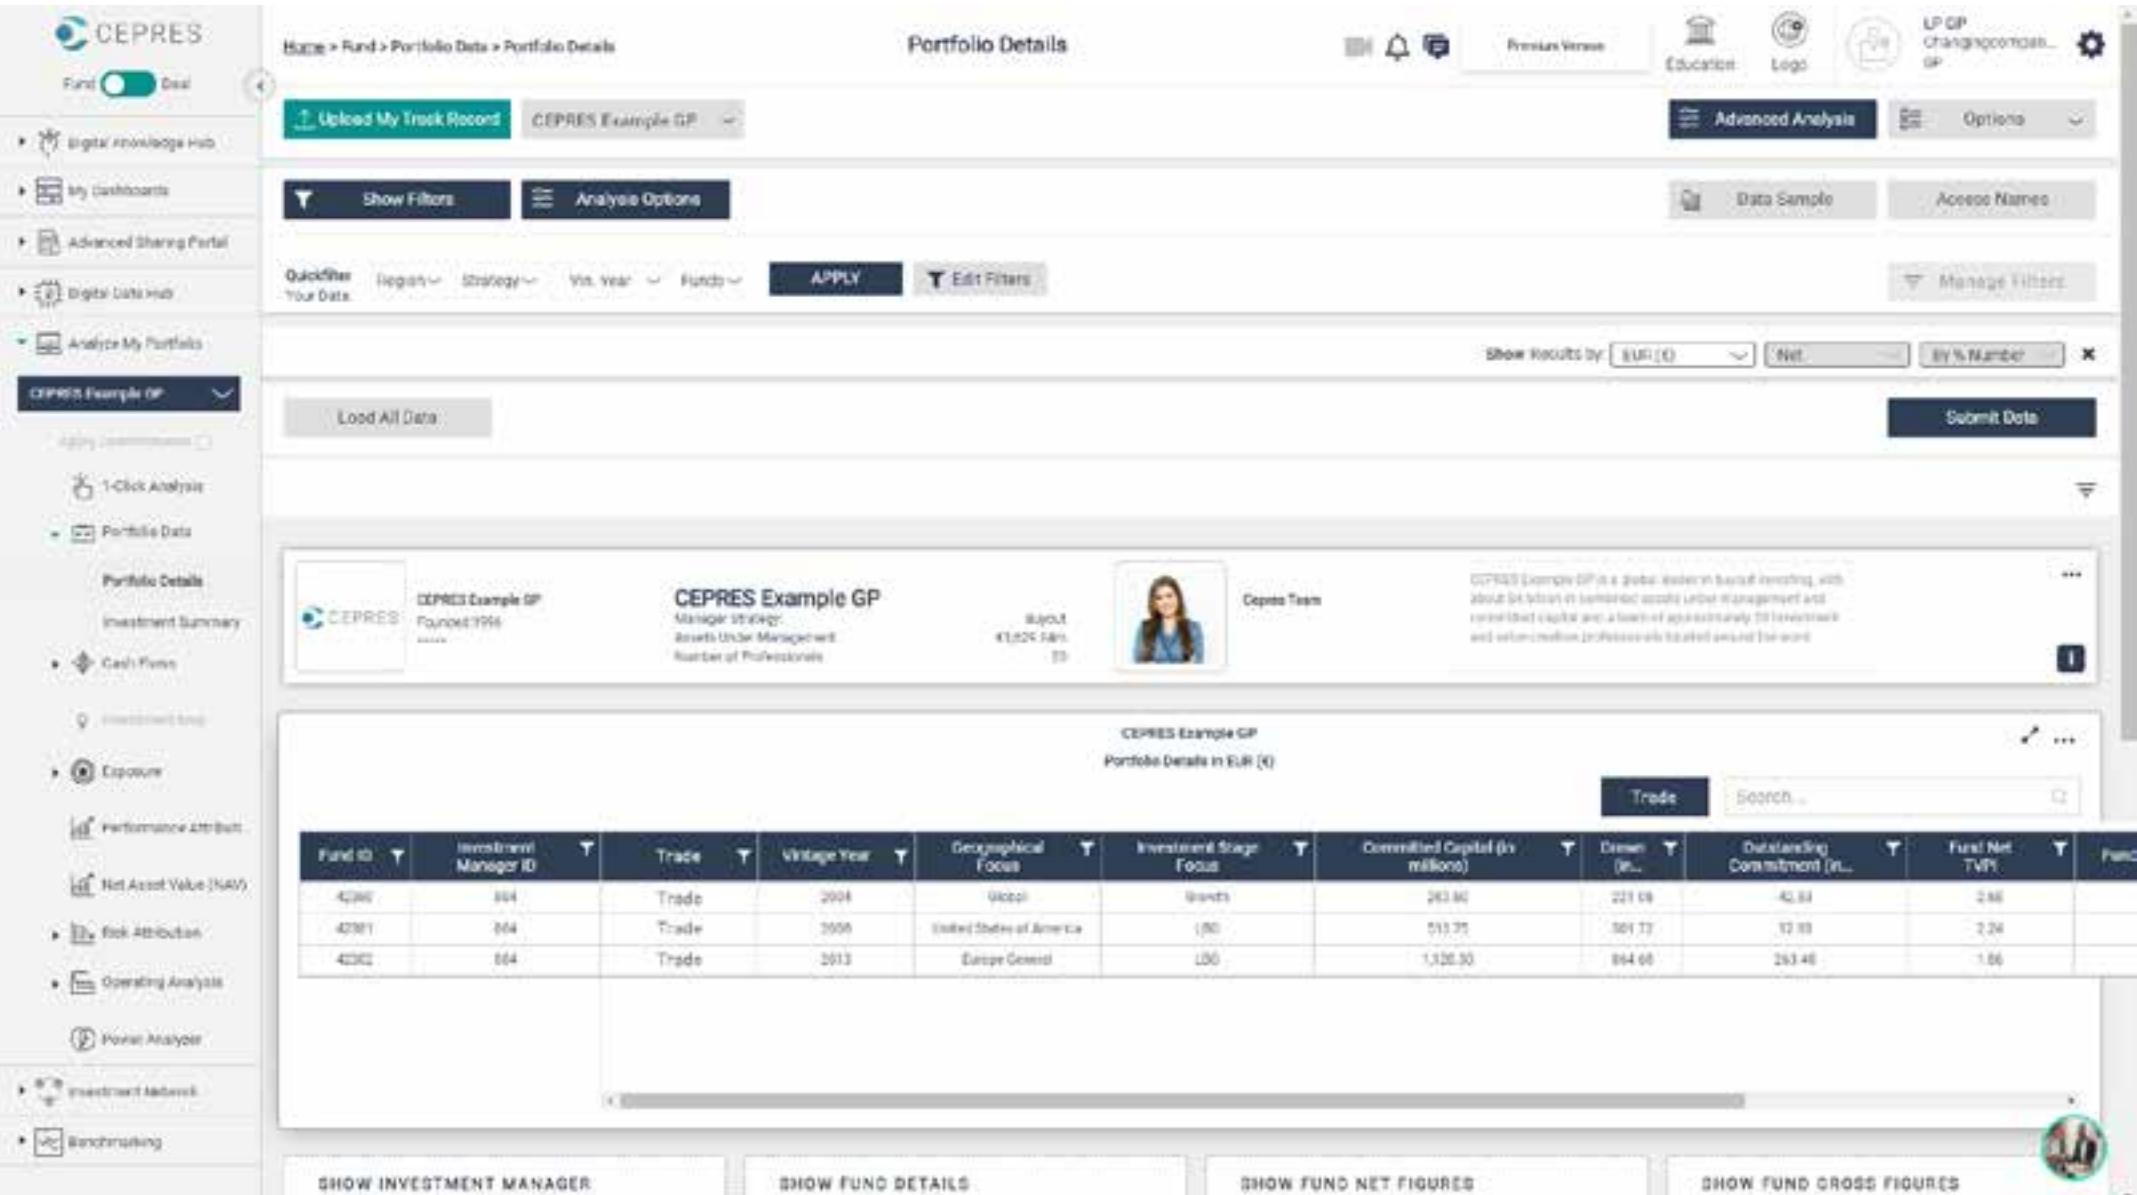

In the early 2000s, the idea of large-scale data exchange in the private markets was unfathomable. CEPRES recognized that investors needed to look through fund performance into the underlying deal and asset performance to make better investment decisions. We started by providing investors access to granular, actionable private market data and insights to enable the look-through investment.

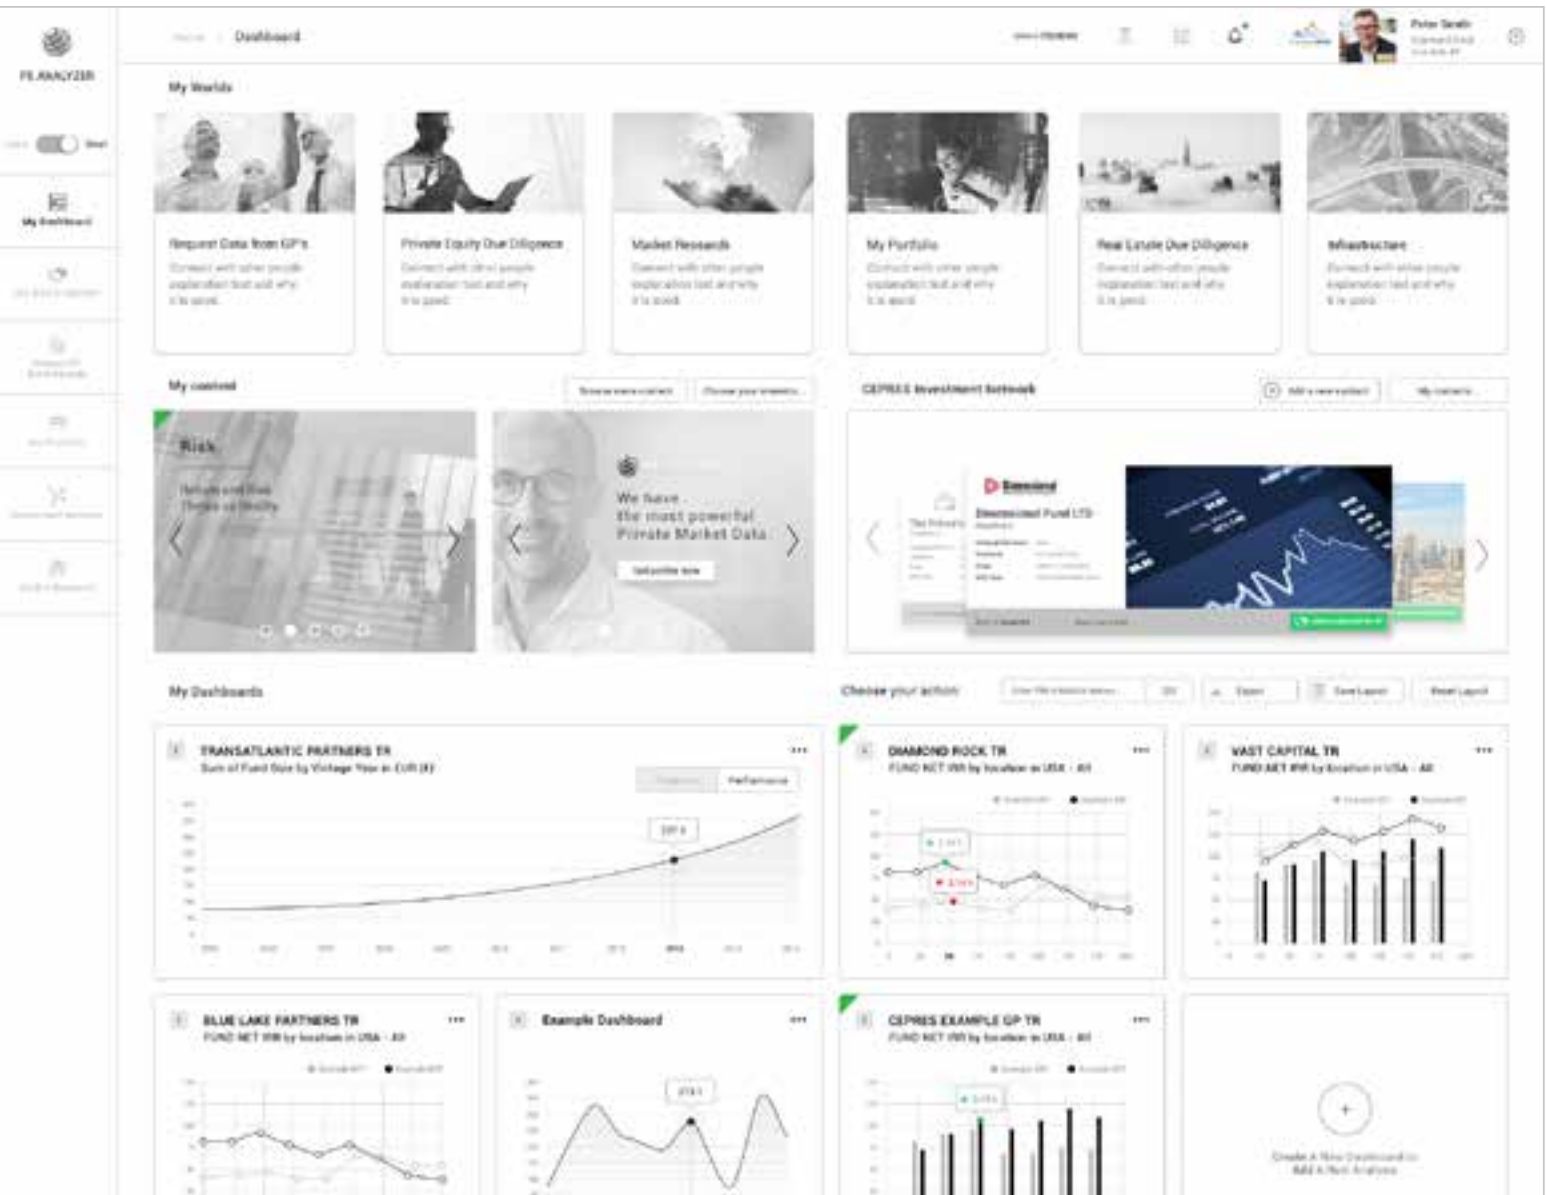

PROBLEM

CEPRES PE.Analyzer offers unparalleled access to granular data, but lacks an efficient and easy way to filter, analyze and output data relevant to the specific user.

An early version showing an example of the complexity and chaos of filter options.

A new prototype showing the same amount of filter options.

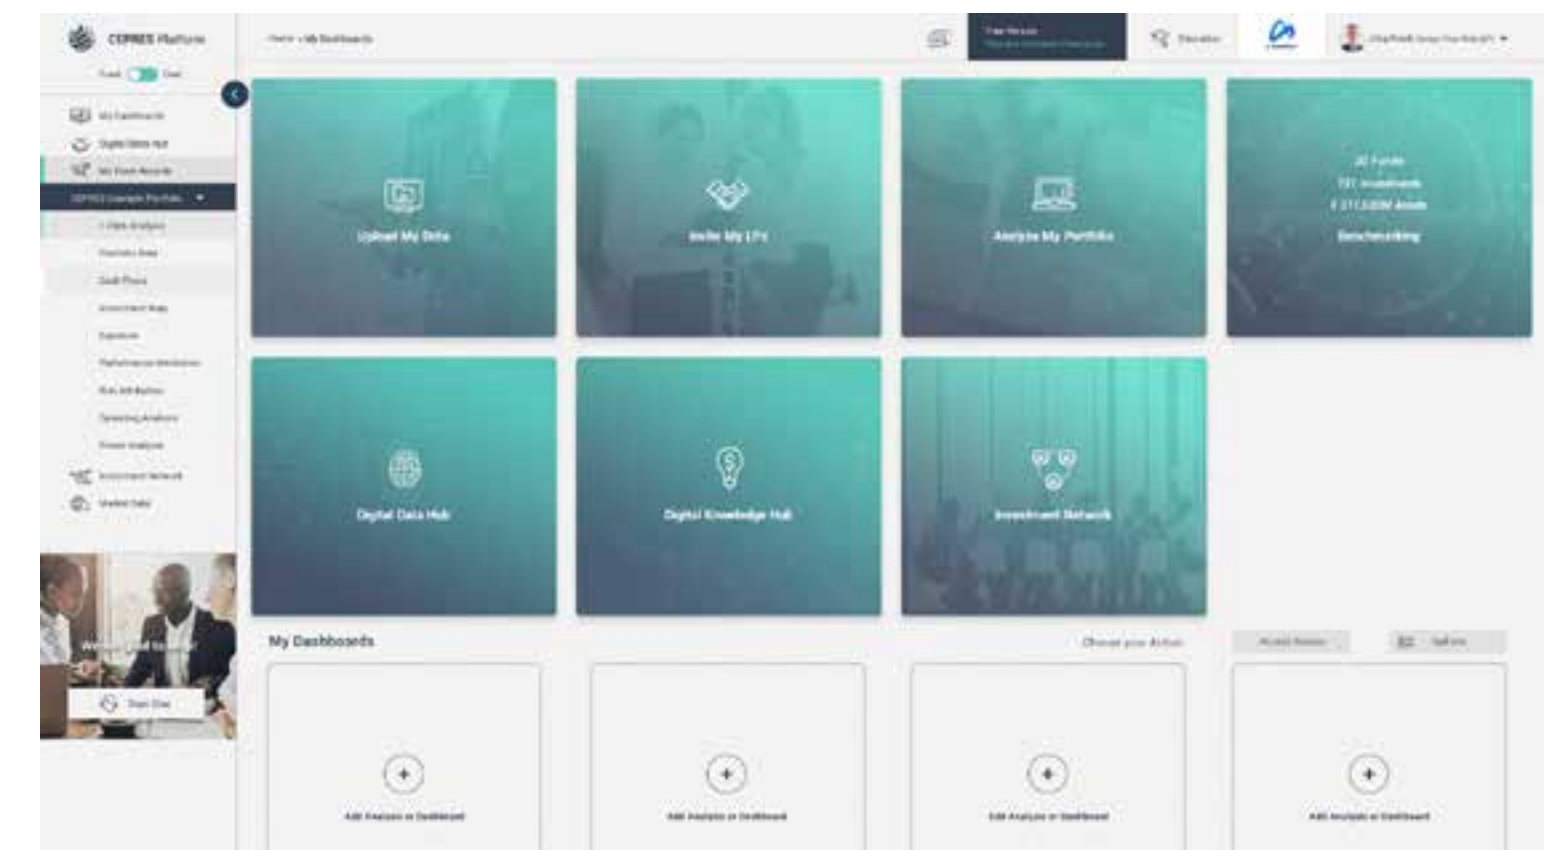

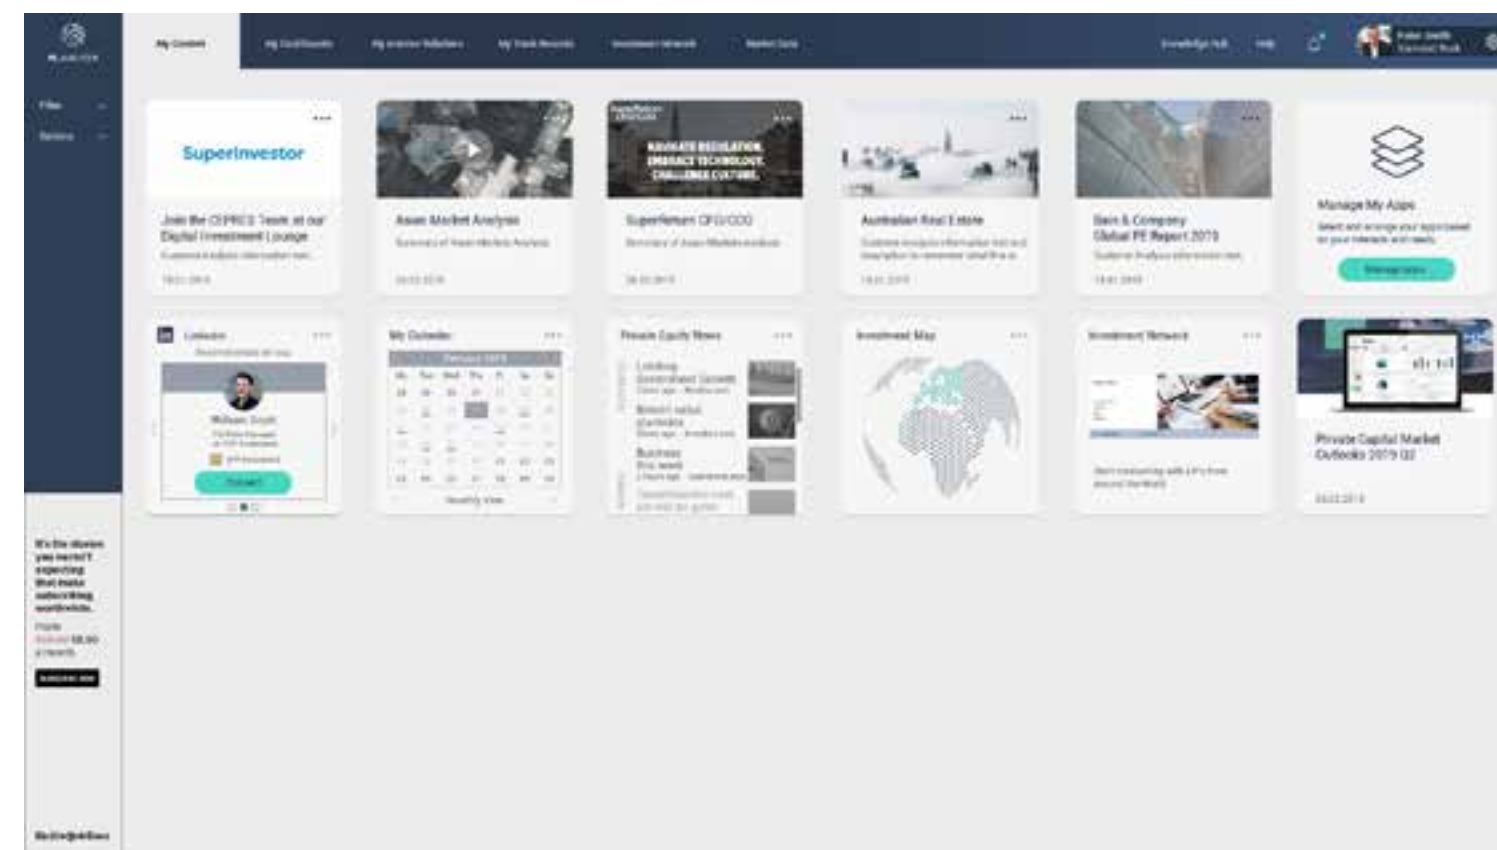

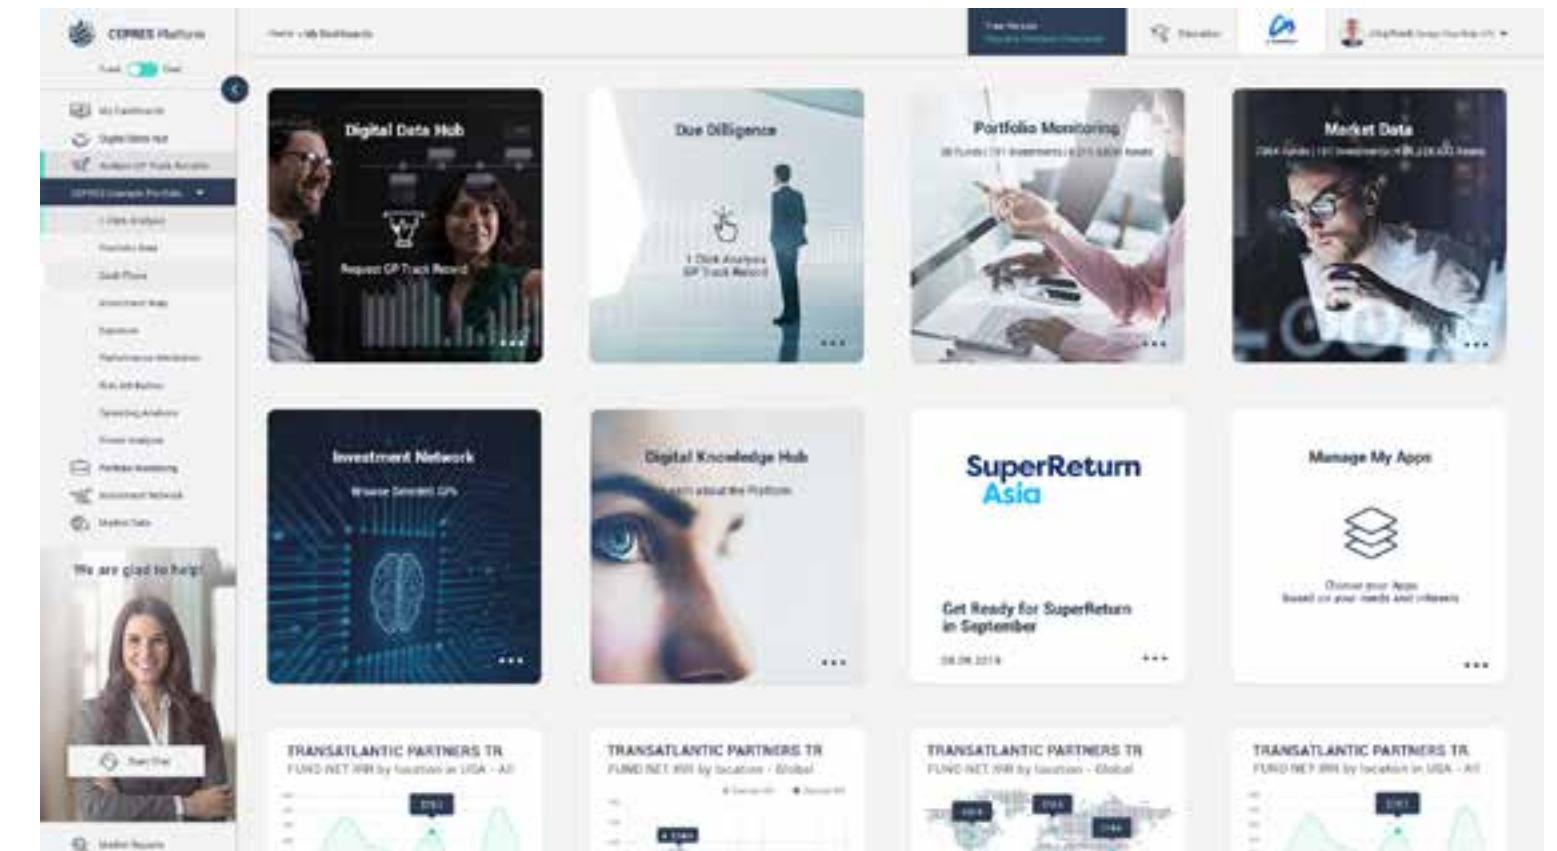

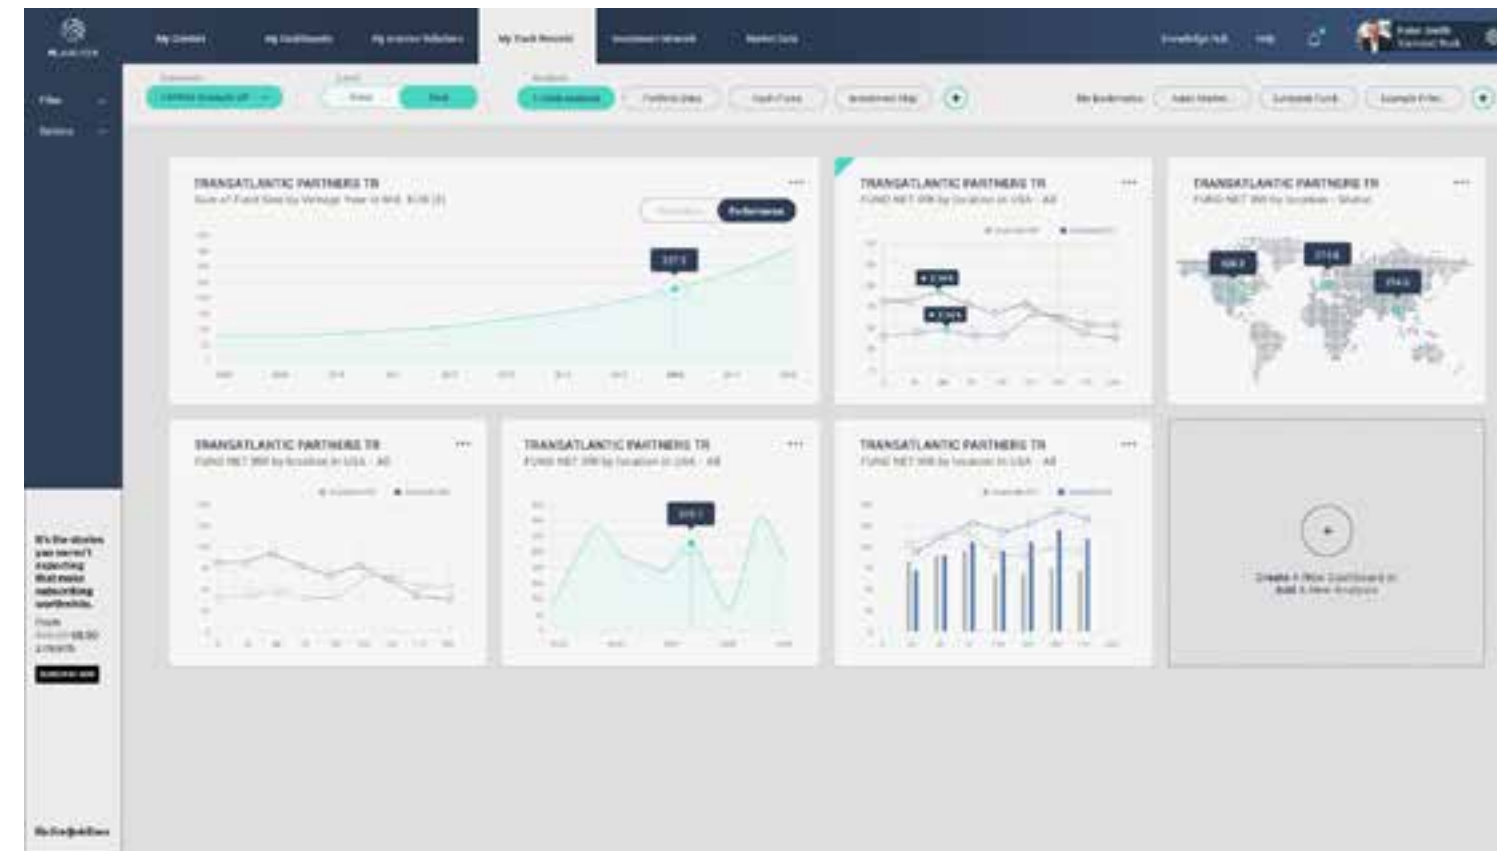

DESIGN

We started by doing intense sprints of research, user interviews and synthesis of existing user data. We needed to truly understand who our users are, their painpoints, their role in the financial market, wants, needs and daily tasks.

We identified 76 different user roles from institutional investors, to small private funds, to data analysts on the platform. There are more than 125.000 filtering options available. On top of that, sorting and analyzing options can be applied.

A key to the success of the platform was sorting the 76 user personas into 7 broader use case scenarios. This allowed us to predefine and preselect certain filters and options in a decluttered dashboard experience.

Through a highly collaborative workflow including a team of market experts, fund managers and real users, and extensive user testing, we went through 7 complete platform iterations.

User generated, custom branded Dashboard experience, with real-time analysis, using live data.

RESULTS

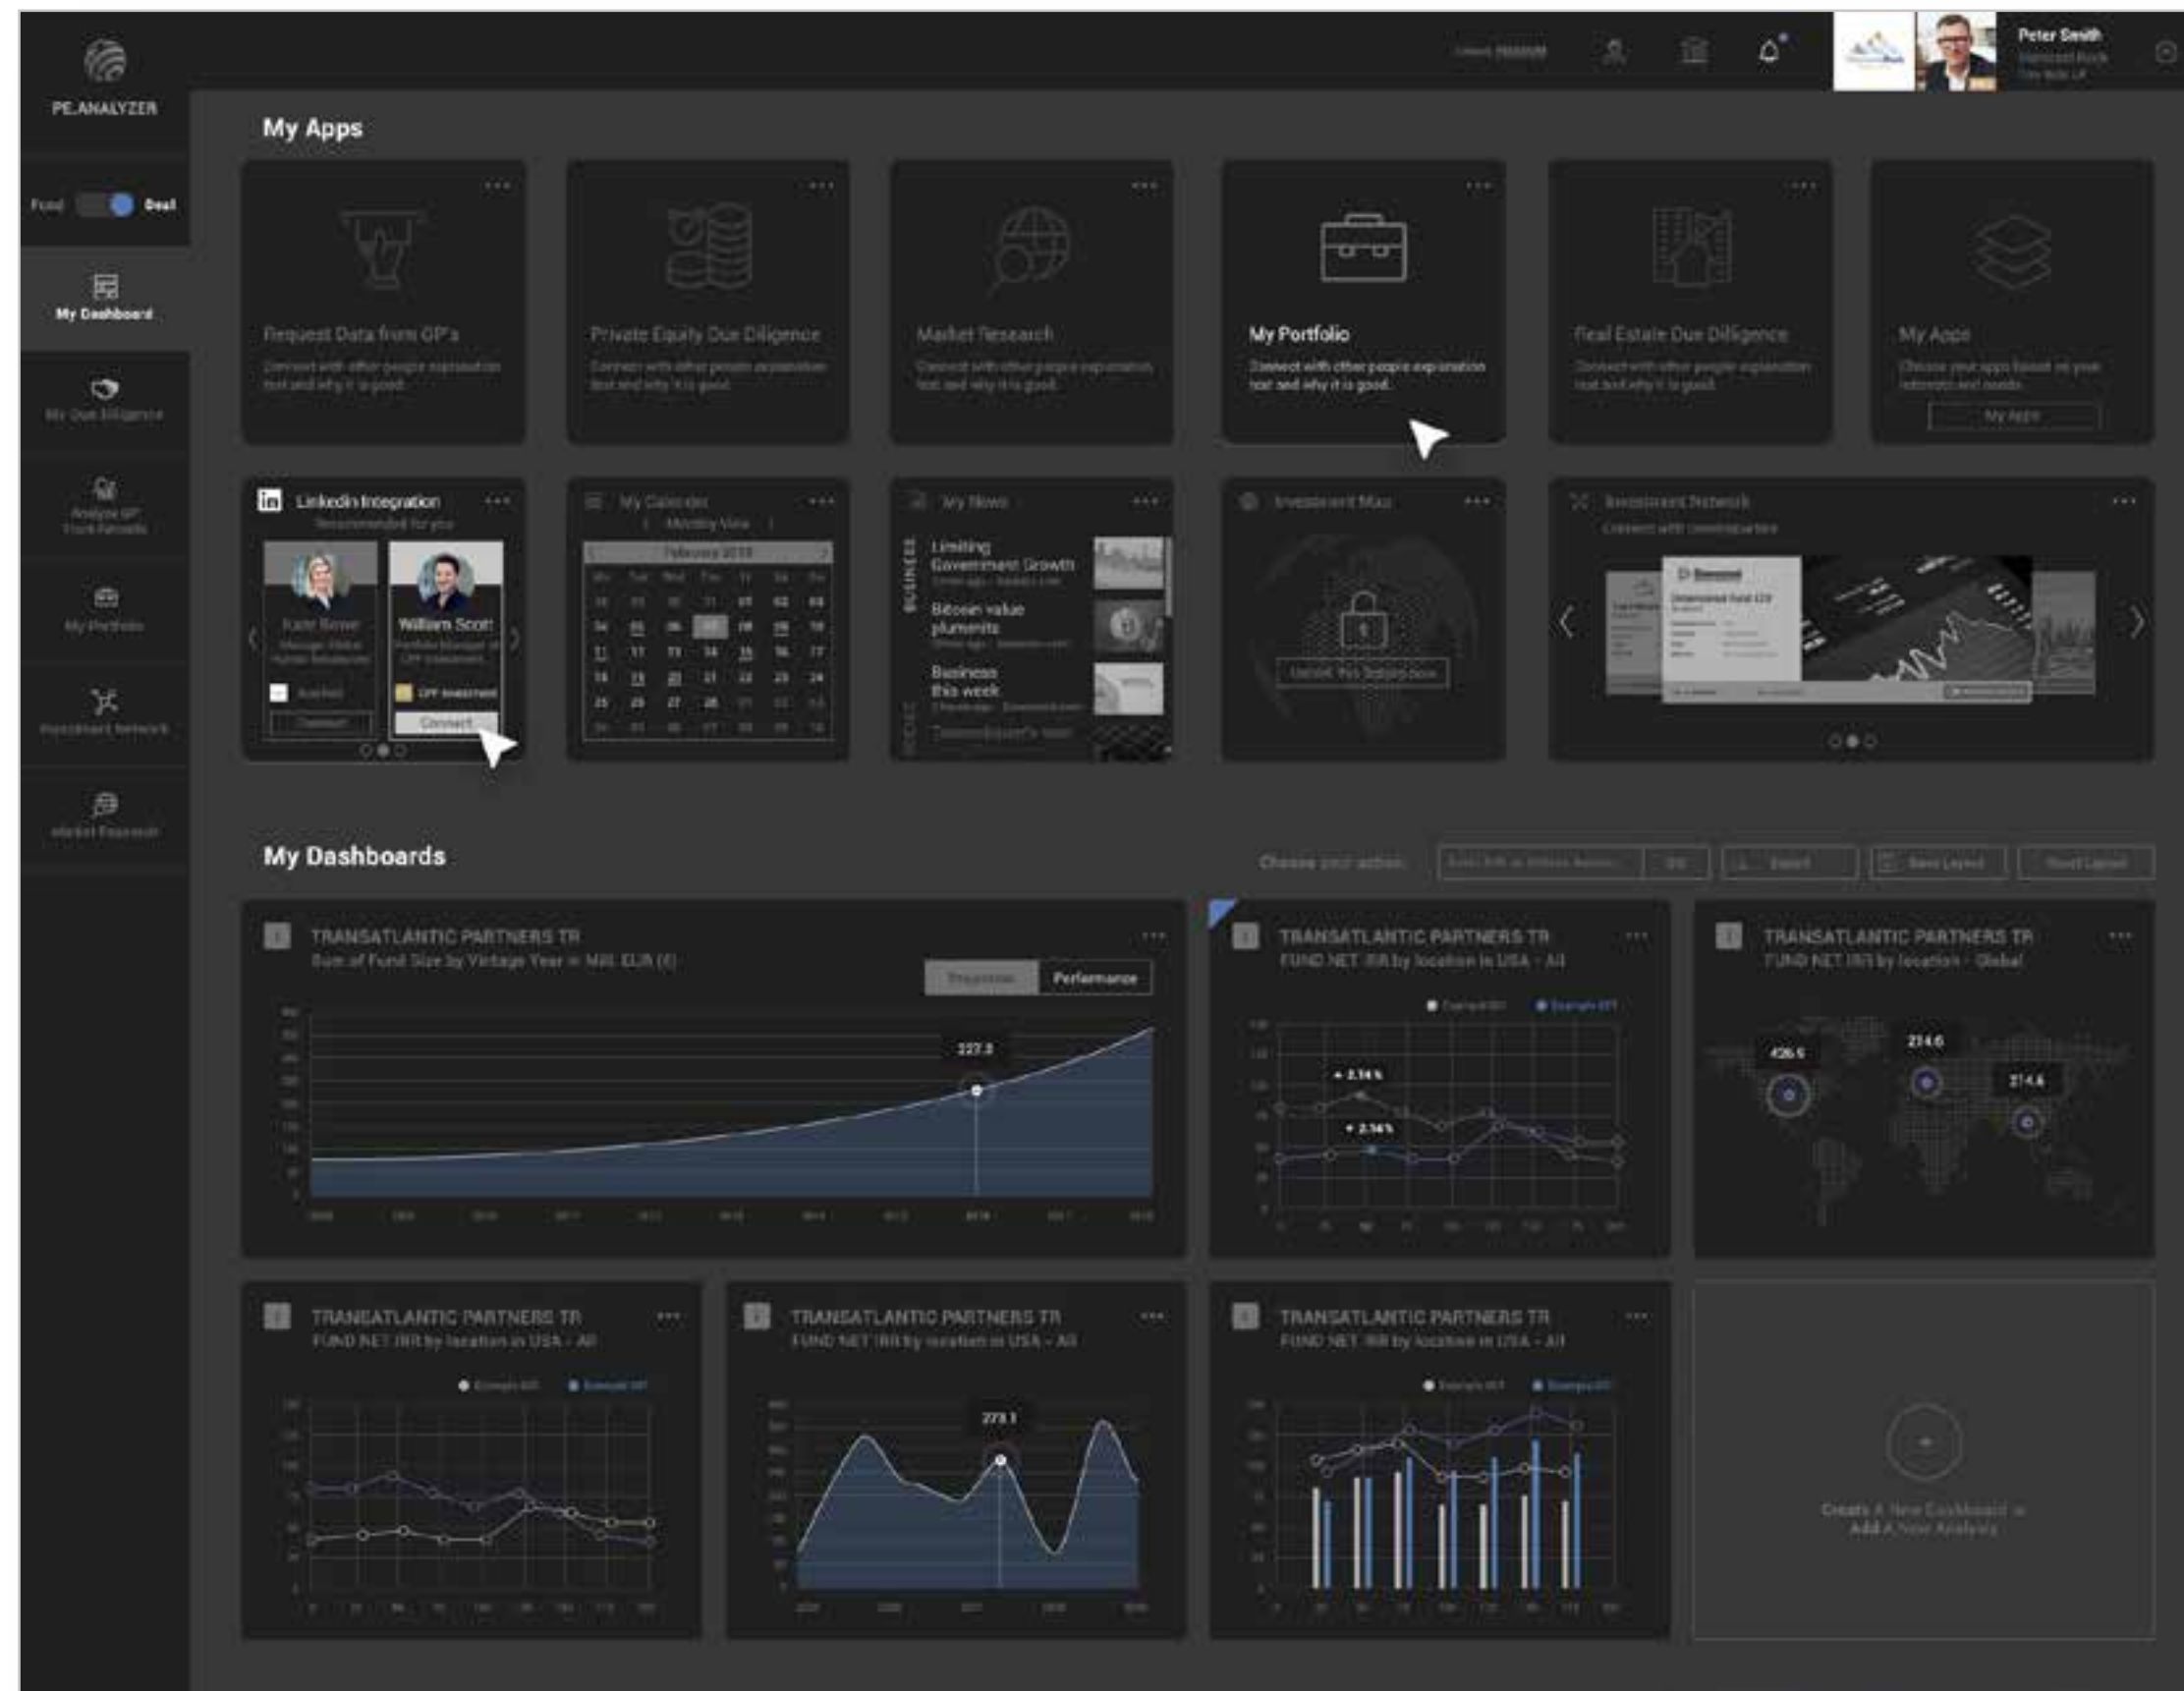

Today, CEPRES is the largest and most powerful private market investment ecosystem with a total of $45 Trillion asset value, with over 6,000 LPs and GPs and 125,000 PE-backed companies and 12,000 Funds managed.

During my time working with CERPES, the company grew from 15 employees with an office in Munich to now 120+ employees and has offices in New York, Singapore, Denver and London.

The ILPA chose CEPRES as the best practice due diligence partner.

My efforts for CEPRES resulted in the following awards:

Private Equity Wire Award – Best Data Management Solution 2020
Private Equity Wire Award – Best Portfolio Management Software 2020
Private Equity Wire Award – Best Risk Management Solution 2019
Private Equity Wire Award – Best Data Management Solution 2019
Private Equity Wire Award – Best Portfolio Management Software 2019
Private Equity Wire Award – Best Portfolio Management Software 2018

7 versions and countless iterations later.

Museum®

CONTEXT

The Young Champion Ambassador program links students with the birthplace of the Olympic Movement and galvanizes excitement for the US Olympic Museum.

PROBLEM

We need to activate high performing students to become local ambassadors for the Olympic Movement.

We need to create a powerful and meaningful experience for the students.

Participants have to be proud of being a part of the YCA program and perceive it as a 1-in-a-million opportunity.

We need the support of the parents.

We need government and local municipality buy-in.

YOUNG CHAMPION
AMBASSADOR

DESIGN

First, we created elaborate user personas for each of the types of students we want to attract. We did the same for their parents. We also created user personas for important gatekeepers like Olympic Committee Officials and government and education officials.

From our extensive research we started to design a group activity based, experiential learning curriculum. We pulled high level experts from various industries (UN, Air Force, Olympic Athletes) to host workshops.

Students were forced to be in a highly collaborative work surrounding where roles can shift and they are in charge of finding their own sultions to comprehensive problems.

The highest performing students will be rewarded with being part of the official Olympic Torch Relay in Athens, Greece.

Translating ICAP requirements into the user experience

SPACE

RESULTS

We started with only 1 cohort of local students from various schools in Colorado Springs, CO. Today, YCA is a one-of-a-kind, international, premier youth leadership program.

YCA has now programs in over 25 cities around the world as there are YCA programs in the US, Europe and Asia.

YCA has been aquired and is now officially part of the International Olympic Academy.

Content Strategy

CONTEXT

When I started at Keller Sports, new investors were found and this gave the company the ability to shift the strategic direction and implement fundamental changes.

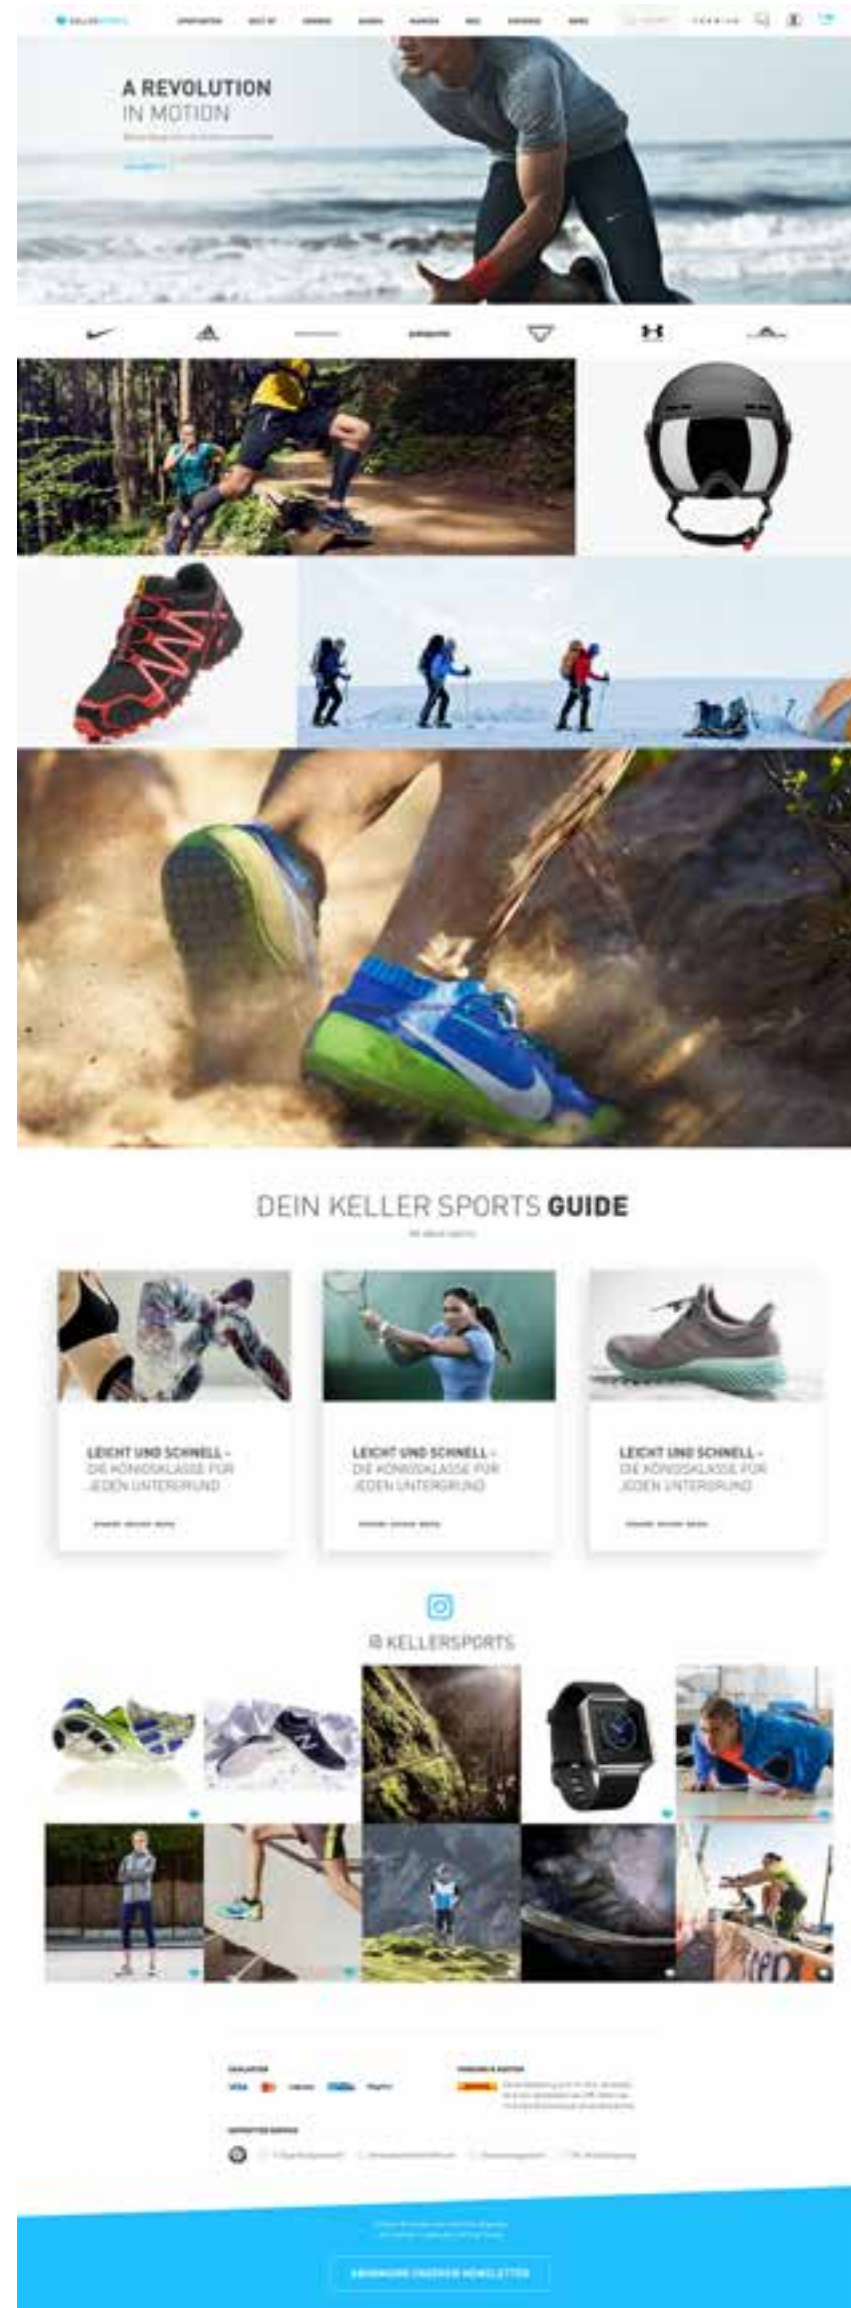

PROBLEM

Keller Sports had to be visually positioned as the best advisor and curator for premium sports products and experiences.

User Interface and User Experience of the shop had never been addressed in a focused, iterative manner.

The mobile experience was not optimized for small devices and was converting poorly.

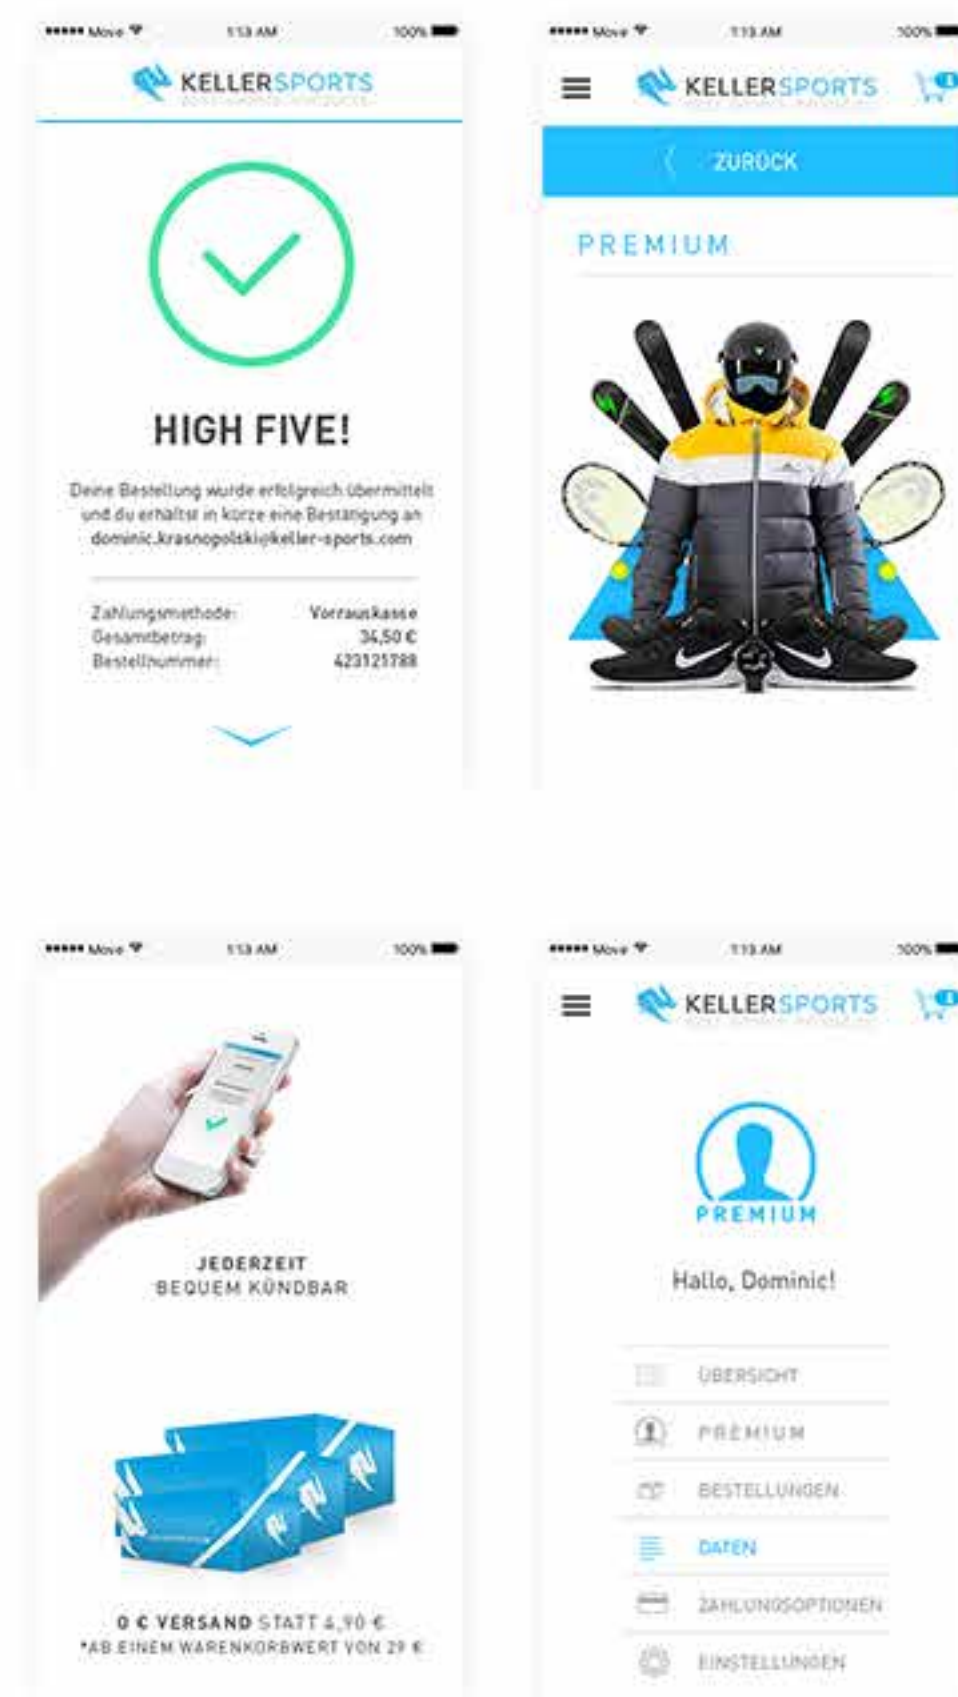

DESIGN

In the short time span of 2 years, I oversaw and designed 3 full shop re-launches, switching to responsive shop layouts on desktop and mobile, changing the backend and CMS completely from scratch. We adopted new marketing strategies, emphasizing heavily on social media and content creation with community athletes and engagement campaigns with Keller Sports Pros.

During this time we identified that in order to distinguish ourselves visually from the competition there was no way around capturing our own content and product imagery. I started an in-house photography studio and department, for creating branded product photography and creating the required video content.

I worked very closely together with the CEO, Head of Product and the development team to change the strategic direction and functionality of the shop. We created a strong internal culture of sport-loving enthusiasts that are proud of what they do every day. with an attention to detail and premium sports experiences that reflects in every button of the shopping experience.

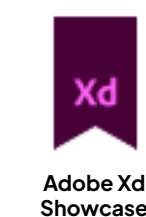

RESULTS

Our hard work and dedication to the process was rewarded with 13 awards, ranging from brand design awards to shop usability and user experience. Additionally, the UI and Xd design was showcased by Adobe.

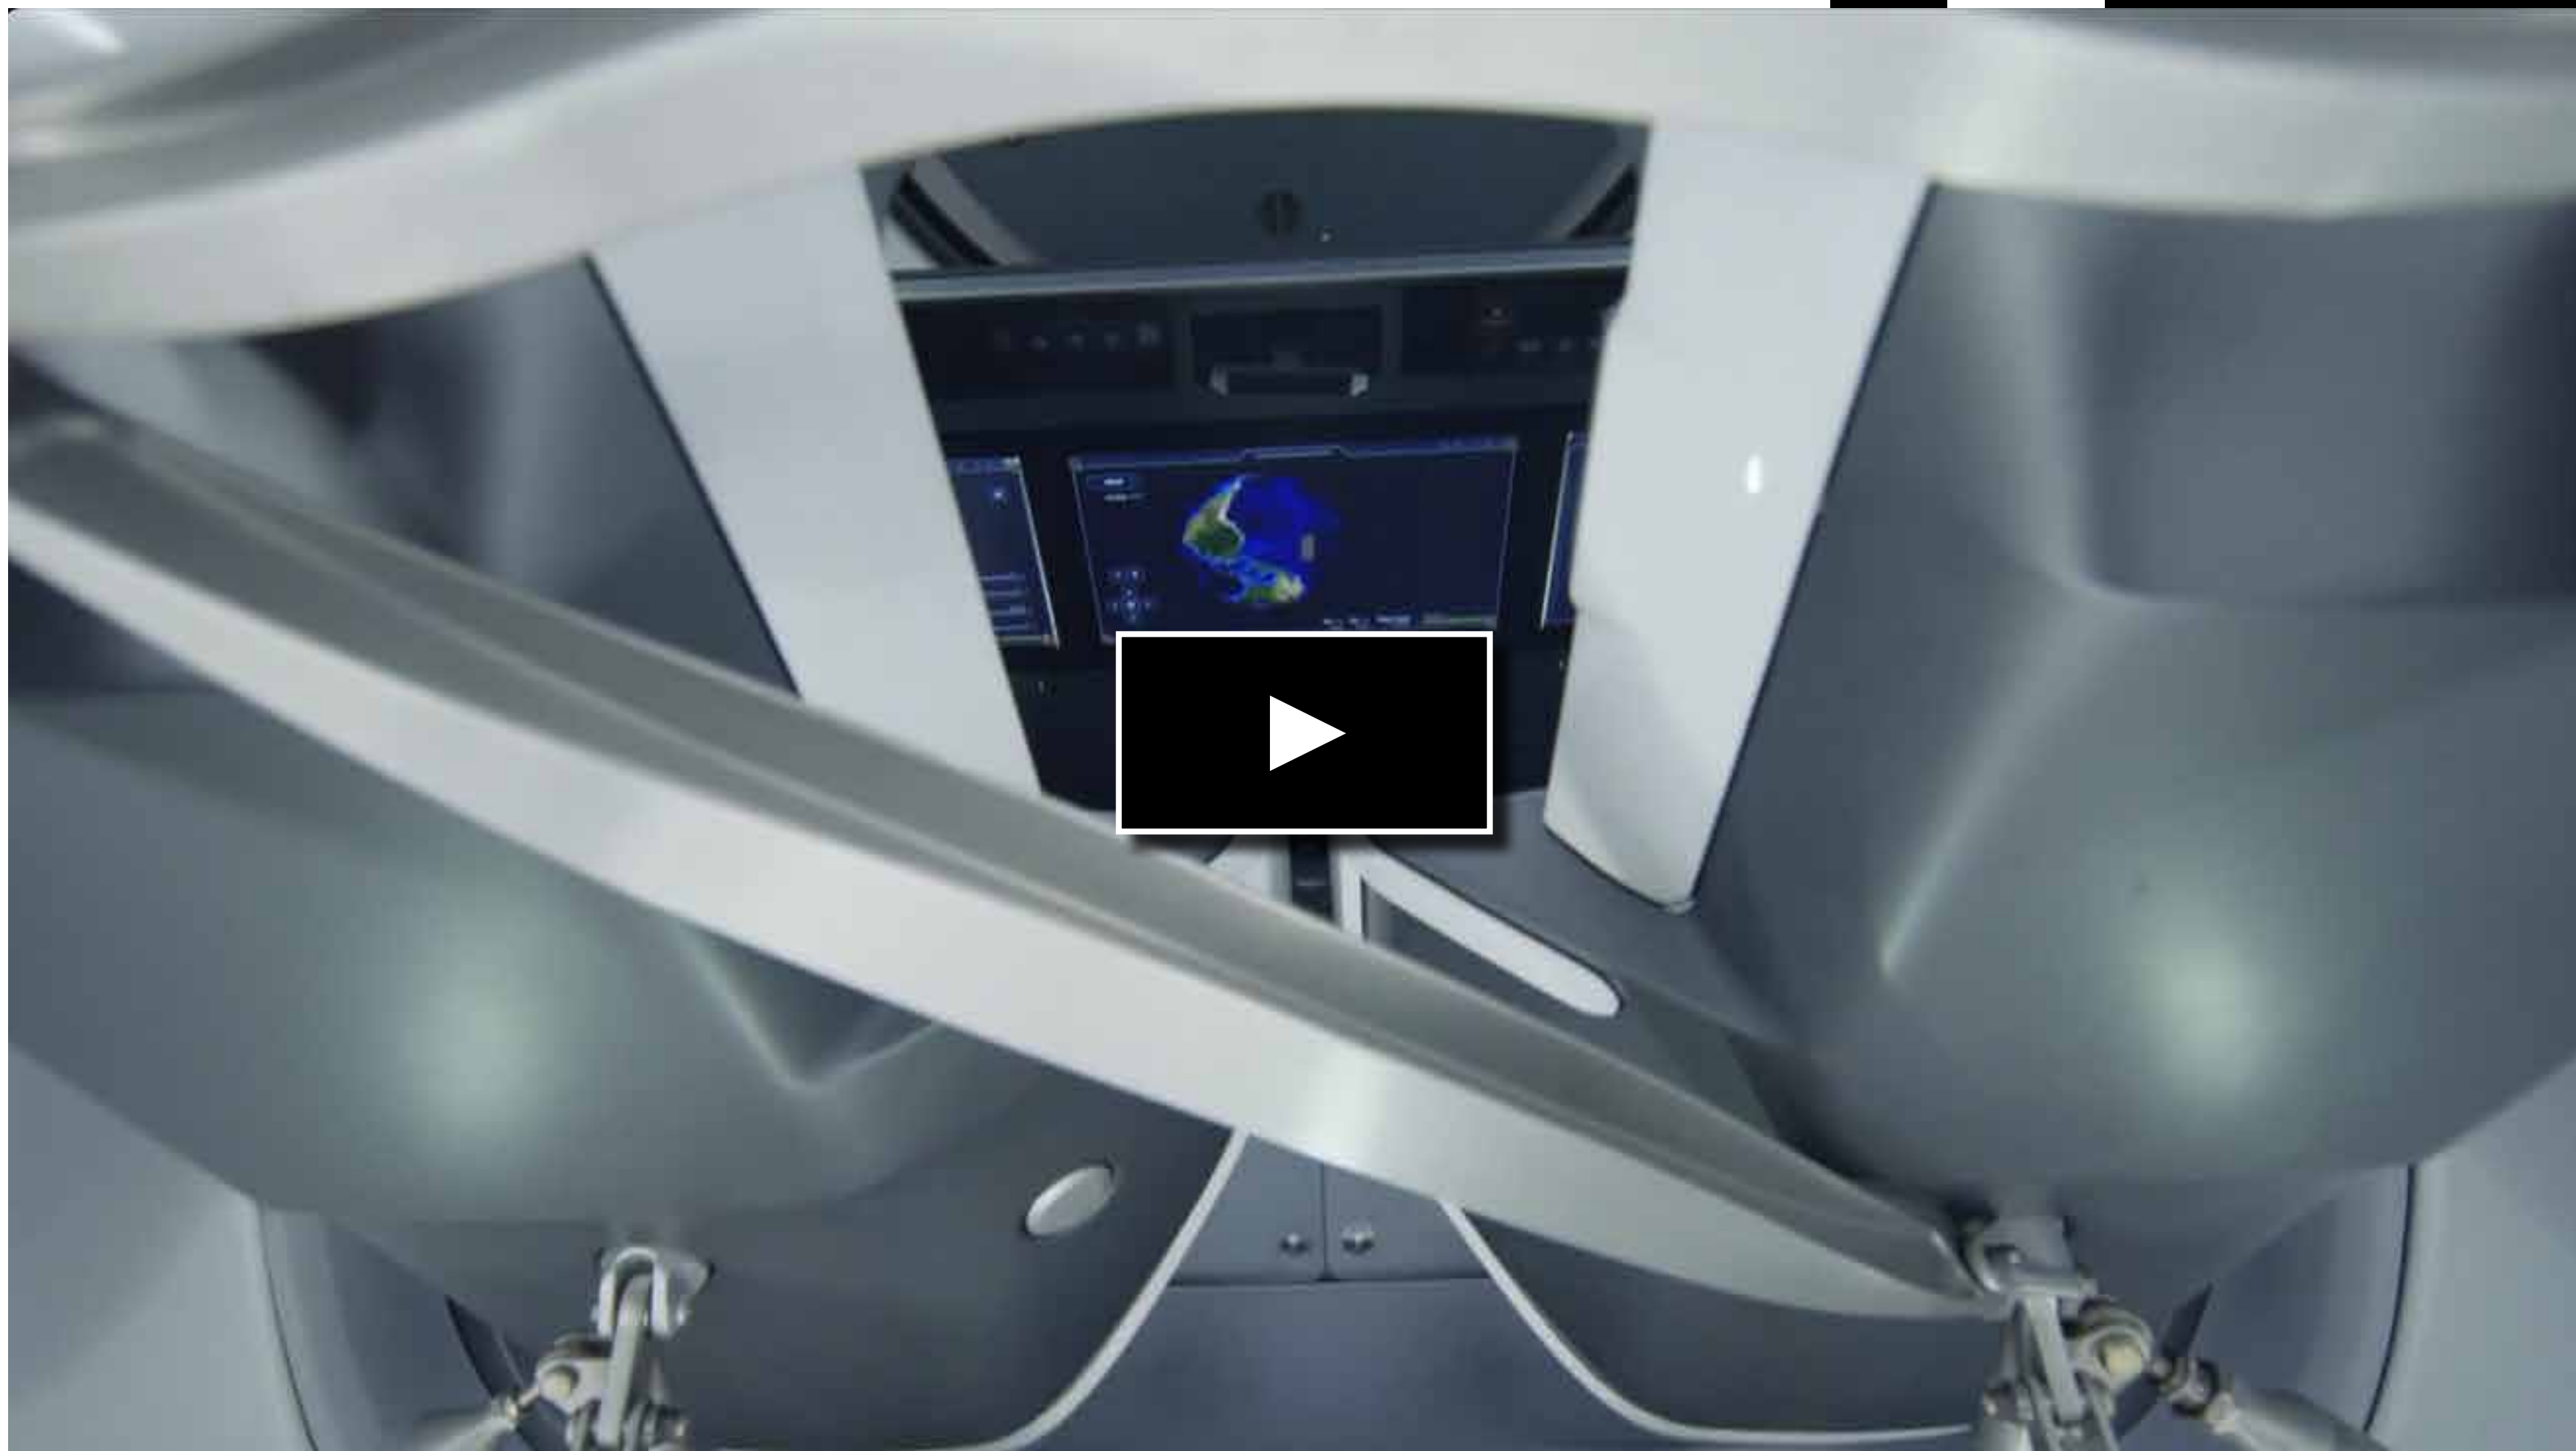

On top of that, Adidas changed their global product photography, based on the processes we developed at Keller Sports.

Keller Sports has been acquired and is no longer active in the market.

CONTEXT

Planetarie is a women owned, Colorado-based company, producing USDA organic certified CBDa products. Planetarie has developed a one of a kind, patent pending process to extract CBDa from the hemp plant, using only water and resulting in no harmful waste products.

CBDa EXTRACTED WITH WATER

RAW, potent CBDa, closer to the plant,
more effective.

Traditional processed CBD, often includes harsh chemicals,
less efficient.

PROBLEM

The CBD market has to overcome the illegal weed smoking stigma that has kept the industry from being taken seriously.

The competition in the CBD market is very tight and has only a few big players competing for the whole market.

Adoption is slow and education of the public is almost non-existent.

CBD α EXTRACTED WITH WATER

Our process extracts CBD α with water, yielding a product that is as close to the plant as possible, retaining all the benefits while adding nothing of harm. It's the art of combining science and nature to create well-being.

DESIGN

Before creating the branding for Planetarie, we collaborated on defining the internal values and culture of the company first. In these early sessions, we distilled who Planetarie is and why we exist. These guiding principles influenced every decision made for the brand, from designing the logo, to which materials are being used in the packaging.

We focused on visually aligning ourselves with trusted med-tech, to outweigh the negative stigma. We utilized connections to the medical field and our relationship to Olympic athletes to collaborate and introduce trusted success stories.

RESULTS

After a successful patent process and establishing Planetarie products as a go-to, non addictive pain treatment, and a solution for overall well-being, the company got aquired by Tanasi.
